

Ruben Santiago

–

Turning a public toilet into a spa

–

Arte Útil archive nr:
108

Initiator:
Ruben Santiago

Location:
Spain

Category:
economy, social

Users:
Ruben Santiago, homeless, inhabitants of Gothic district

Maintained by:
Hangar

Duration:
2007

Description:

For three days, Ruben Santiago has installed, without any official authorization, a hydro-massage shower in a public bathroom in the Gothic Quarter of Barcelona. The installation also made available to users bath gel, shampoo and towels that were regularly replaced.

Goals:

Adding a functional element inside an already existing official device to instate an exercise of civil disobedience and infiltration. This infiltration, in spite of its desire to improve the public services given to the citizen, is illegally generated.

Beneficial Outcomes:

The users could get a hydro-massage bath for free.

Images:

